GRAINS FARM
BIOSECURITY
PROGRAM

Grains Farm Biosecurity Program

Biosecurity implementation in the grains industry is being achieved through the Grains Farm Biosecurity Program. This program is delivered by Plant Health Australia (PHA) and funded by growers through Grains Producers Australia (GPA) together with the New South Wales, Queensland, South Australian, Victorian and Western Australian state governments.

The Grains Farm Biosecurity Program delivers by:

- providing a national perspective on biosecurity issues affecting the grains industry
- developing and distributing biosecurity awareness material
- raising awareness of priority pests and key biosecurity issues in the industry
- demonstrating simple and effective methods for implementing on-farm biosecurity
- facilitating the capture and recording of surveillance data
- communicating with all stakeholders of the grains supply chain to provide a consistent biosecurity message.

Grains Biosecurity Officers

Through this program, Grains Biosecurity Officers (GBOs) have been employed in most states to increase biosecurity awareness and deliver training to growers, consultants and other industry stakeholders.

The GBOs work closely with growers and consultants to promote biosecurity awareness and facilitate efforts to protect crops from exotic pest and disease threats at the farm level.

For further information on biosecurity in the grains industry, contact your local GBO or visit the Grains Farm Biosecurity website.
